This is the second release from the swedish band Krokodil.

Krokodil is the result of a collaboration between guitarist Klas Gullbrand and bassplayer Palle Sollinger. They started playing together about two years ago when they both felt a need to create something new and fresh. Two albums and numerous liveshows later, the music is still evolving.

Jazz may be their biggest influence but they don't see themselves as a strict jazzband, rather as a band willing to incorporate different attitudes, sounds and ways of playing into their music. Having said that, improvisation and interplay are still a big part of what they do. Somtimes sounding intimate, fragile, melodic, somtimes outbursting, loud, and dramatic, the band always perform music with high presence and intensity.
